I like colors. It would be sad to live in a black and white world (unless you are an orca). My proposal is a colorful sunset with northern lights, mountains, ocean, orcas, fish and a totem pole. This example is made with felt but the actual piece would be painted with enamel paint (best weatherproof paint) on signboard.

I feel 8ft tall x 16ft wide would be the best size for art work at the Cruise Ship Dock, but I would make 10 x 10 work if that is a fixed variable.

I can add other elements and stylize the lettering by request.

It would be artistically appealing for close up viewing as well as from a wide angle perception with all the colors enhancing a traveler's mood, even on the greyest of days.

It would be a memorable photo backdrop that welcomes visitors to Haines with a fun style.

This proposed art piece for the Chilkoot Cruise Ship Dock would cost $2,400.00, which includes the time and supplies for the project. This piece would be ready for install by May 2nd, 2014.

This is an unfinished piece of Joe's painted art collection to give you an example of how the proposed piece can be converted into a painting format with Joe's artistic talents easily crossing over into multi mediums.

At this time Joe Parnell does not have a business license as he has not launched his art work to the main stream yet. He is working on a website launch in the near future and will be getting a business license soon. Thank you for this opportunity.
